Grammar: Clear Pronoun Reference
Pronouns take the place of nouns. Pronouns can improve your writing as long as every pronoun refers to a specific noun.

EXAMPLES

Melissa worked in the library when she was a student.

One of the largest cities in the world is São Paulo, Brazil. It has around 21 million people in its metropolitan area.

Many schools are purchasing labeled computers because they are portable and easy to use.

Notice the unclear pronoun reference in the following sentence:
Students should consistently focus on their homework from the time they are in primary school. They say that this habit increases intellectual ability. (Who does they refer to?)

To clarify, rewrite the sentence with the precise noun:
Most educational experts say that this habit increases intellectual ability.

ACTIVITY 7 | Editing for clear pronoun reference
Circle the pronouns. If the pronoun reference is not clear, rewrite the sentence.

- Blueberries and grapefruit are both healthy snacks loaded with vitamins. They are considered a "superfood" because of their many health benefits.
Blueberries are considered a "superfood" because of their many health benefits.
- Sushi is a Japanese food made with raw fish. They consider it one of the most popular types of Japanese food.
- Marine biologists study animals that live in the ocean, including whales, sharks, and octopuses. They are the biggest creatures on Earth.
- Scientists use electronic devices to follow animals such as wolves and bears. They want to study the animals' habits in the wild.
- Environmentalists are concerned about the increasing number of wildfires in the last few years. They have become more widespread because of environmental changes.

ACTIVITY 8 | Revising for clear pronoun reference
Read the comparison paragraph. Note the five underlined pronouns, which are not clear. Then follow the directions on the next page.

WORDS TO KNOW Paragraph 2.3
major: (adj) main, (one of the) most important unlike: (prep) different from average: (phr) usually, normally

PARAGRAPH 2.3
The Weather in Chicago and Miami
Both Chicago and Miami are very popular cities, but their climates¹ could not be more different. The first difference is the seasons. Chicago has all four seasons, but Miami does not. People in Chicago enjoy very different weather in the summer, fall, winter, and spring.² It, in contrast, has only two seasons: a very mild winter and a very low summer. Another major difference in the weather between Replace the unclear pronouns from Paragraph 2.3 with precise nouns.

- It: _____
- It: _____
- It: _____
- they: _____
- them: _____

Grammar: Consistent Pronoun Reference
Writers should not jump from singular to plural when referring to the same noun. They should also avoid shifting among first, second, and third person unless it is necessary to do so.

- ✗ A child needs to interact with others in order to form social relationships. Without this contact, children will not develop normally.
- ✓ A child needs to interact with others in order to form social relationships. Without this contact, the child will not develop normally.
- ✗ Parents should teach children how to express feelings. We can do this by sharing out our feelings.
- ✓ Parents should teach children how to express feelings. They can do this by sharing their own feelings.

ACTIVITY 9 | Revising for consistent pronoun usage
The following sentences change person and/or number within the sentences, creating unnecessary shifts. Change the incorrect pronouns and any verb forms that need to change.

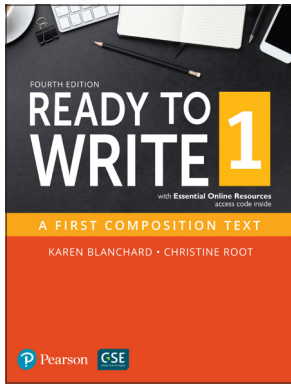

- Before students choose a major, she should always speak to an academic advisor.
- One should applaud if you want to see on gas.
- Doctors warn people that you should watch the kind of food you eat every day.
- The population of the United States has grown steadily over the past century, and they continue to grow.
- Alligators and crocodiles are distinct in that it is either a freshwater or saltwater reptile.
- It is important for a company to respond quickly to problems we may face.
- Many computer users hate software updates because of the interruption to our work.

ACTIVITY 10 | Editing a paragraph
There are six errors in pronoun usage. Find and correct the errors and any verb forms that need to change as a result.

PARAGRAPH 2.4
A Fast-Growing Industry
Biomedical engineering is one of the fastest-growing segments of the tech industry. Students who choose to study this major are likely to have many job opportunities after her graduation. Biomedical engineering is a hybrid science. They incorporate engineering principles with medicine and biology. Every year, biomedical engineers introduce new technologies to help people overcome her physical handicaps. Biomedical engineering has also evolved to meet the needs of people looking for alternative treatments—ones that are very different from what her doctors traditionally provided in the past. They say that this field of study is perfect for people who are as interested in medicine as they are in engineering and technology, as they can satisfy needs for both. These individuals are sure to thrive in this new and exciting field.

1 Read the paragraph a student wrote about her favorite holiday.

My Favorite Holiday

My favorite holiday is Songkran, the traditional Thai New Year. We celebrate Songkran in the spring, from April 13 to April 15. Businesses, schools, and banks are usually closed. Many people who live in big cities go back to their hometowns for three days to celebrate with their family and friends. At the beginning of Songkran, we clean our houses. We cook traditional Thai food such as pad Thai for our family and friends. We often wear traditional clothes, and then we go to the temple to pray and give food to the monks. Young people sprinkle water on their parents' and grandparents' hands to show respect. After that, fun begins. Everyone goes outdoors. There are always parades and beauty contests on the streets. Children and adults stand on the side of the road and throw water on people. In fact, Songkran is famous for splashing water and even water fights. It is very hot, so people rarely mind getting wet. All over Thailand, Songkran is a time for fun, family, and getting wet. If you plan to visit Thailand during Songkran, make your hotel reservation early. Also, leave your camera in your hotel room because it will get wet!

- 2 Underline the verbs in the simple present tense in the paragraph "My Favorite Holiday."
3 Circle the time-order signal words and frequency adverbs in "My Favorite Holiday."

- ▶ 透過閱讀文章學習如何闡述、表達自己的想法。

- 4 Use your partner's suggestions to revise your paragraph. Write your revised paragraph on a separate piece of paper. Put it in your portfolio.

YOU BE THE EDITOR

The paragraph below has five mistakes with prepositions of time. With a partner, find and correct the mistakes.

A Busy Pharmacist and Mother

I am a pharmacist and a mother, and my days are busy. As a pharmacist, my job is to prepare and sell medicines. Every morning, I get up on 6:30 A.M. I have breakfast with my family and make lunch for my daughter to take to school. I leave the house at 8:00 A.M. and drive to the drugstore where I work for 9:00 A.M. at 5:00 P.M. During the day, I fill prescriptions for customers. Sometimes the customers have questions about their medicines. I answer their questions. I also give them information about how often to take the medicine. After work, I drive home and have dinner with my family. Then I help my daughter with her homework during a few hours. Sometimes I read or watch TV at the evening before I go to bed. I am very busy, but I really enjoy being a pharmacist and a mother.

ON YOUR OWN

Write a paragraph on one of these topics. Then use the Revising Checklist on page 89 to improve your paragraph. Give your paragraph a title and put it in your portfolio.

- Write a paragraph about a typical day of one of your classmates.
- Write a paragraph about a typical day of someone in your family.
- Write a paragraph about a recent birthday you have celebrated.
- Write a paragraph about your favorite holiday when you were a child.

Where in the World Is It?

Read these descriptions of five famous places. Then, identify them by using the following list.

Machu Picchu	Pyramids of Giza

- The sands of a vast desert lie alongside one of the world's greatest rivers. This is the place where ancient people built three large monuments as tombs for their country's rulers. The highest of the group remained the tallest building in the world for thousands of years.
Name of this place:
- This enormous area of the world covers seven million square kilometers and includes the territory of nine nations. The name of this region comes from the river—the world's widest—that flows through it. There is a wide variety of animals which dwell in the jungle here. The thick and deep vegetation that grows in abundance is the reason why some of these living creatures are seldom seen by human beings.

- Mid-June is the time when the sun shines at midnight here. In contrast, December and January are the time when it is dark almost 24 hours a day. That is also the time when temperatures drop to minus 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Even in summer, hardly anything grows here. That is the reason why only a very small number of native people are able to live here.
Name of this place:
- High up in the mountains of Peru is the place where the ruins of a mysterious city are found. They date back to the 15th century. That seems to have been the time when the local people decided to build a center for religious retreat in an isolated location, perhaps to protect it from enemies. The 200 structures that compose the city were built with stone blocks cut by bronze or stone tools and smoothed by sand. The blocks fit together so tightly that a knife cannot be slipped between them. The stone buildings, linked by 3,000 steps, spread out over 18 square kilometers.

Subject-verb Agreement

A verb agrees with its subject in number. A singular subject requires a singular verb; a plural subject requires a plural verb. However, it is easy to make a mistake in subject-verb agreement in any of the following situations:

- When other words come between the subject and the verb;
- When a verb is placed before the subject;
- When using compound subjects;
- When using indefinite pronouns as subjects;
- When using collective nouns as subjects.

A. Words Between Subject and Verb

Any words that you place between the subject and the verb do not change subject-verb agreement.

Examples

- The items in this recipe are all available in your local supermarket.
- Andrea, with the help of her younger brother and sister, likes to spend time in the kitchen cooking new dishes.
- A tank in the middle of all my busy activities often gives me the necessary energy to get things done.

B. Verb Before Subject

You must be sure that your verb agrees with its subject even in those situations where you place the verb before the subject. Words that sometimes occur before the subject include "there," "here," and in questions, "which," "what," and "where."

Examples

- In Monica's kitchen are many cupboards for storing food.
- There are many good places to eat in my hometown.

C. Compound Subjects

In general, subjects linked by "and" take a plural verb. Look at the following examples.

Examples

- Sweet maple syrup and melted butter taste delicious on hotcakes.
- Enthusiasm and taste are important in determining whether you like a particular food or not.

But in some cases, two subjects are joined together by "and" but are considered to be one unit.

Example Strawberries and cream is a very popular dessert in the summertime in America.

The subject of this sentence is "strawberries and cream." While "strawberries" and "cream" are two separate words, they really form one unit of thought in the reader's mind. Therefore, the subject is singular, and the verb must also be singular.

When a subject is joined by "either...or," "neither...nor," or "not only...but (also)," the verb must agree with the subject closer to the verb.

Examples

- Either French fries or a baked potato is fine with me.
- Not only salad but all kinds of fresh vegetables are good for you.

D. Indefinite Pronouns

Indefinite pronouns, such as these words below, always take singular verbs.

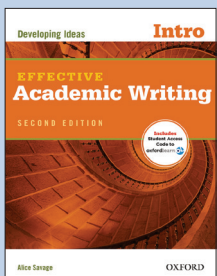

one	either	nobody	nothing
each	everyone	none	anything
anyone	someone	anybody	everything
no one		somebody	something
