Story lab

READING

about two travelers.

1 Look at the pictures. What is the story about?

The travelers and the bear. by Esley

Once upon a time, there were two travelers – an old man and a younger woman – who were on a journey around the world. One day, they were hiking through a forest. It was a very calm and peaceful place, and they could hear birds singing in the trees. "Have you ever seen a place as beautiful as this?" asked the man.

2 Read and listen.

Suddenly they heard a terrible roar and the man screamed. A huge brown bear was running towards them! "Oh, no, a bear!" shouted the woman. "It sounds angry!" She ran to a tree and quickly climbed up.

The man was scared and worried. "How long does it take to climb a tree?" he thought. He couldn't climb up because he was too old, and he was tired. But then he remembered an important fact: Bears aren't interested in dead animals! He lay down on the ground. Then he waited.

3 This kind of story is called a fable. What do you think is the moral? Read and check.

a If you see a bear, climb a tree.
b A good friend will always help you.
c Always travel with a friend.

4 Complete the phrases from the story.

1 The woman shouted, "The bear sounds _____."
2 The bear thought, "He looks _____."

5 Read and circle T (True), F (False), DS (the story doesn't say).

1 The travelers were enjoying their trip. T / F / DS
2 They went hiking every day. T / F / DS
3 The bear wasn't very big. T / F / DS
4 The man couldn't climb the tree. T / F / DS
5 The man wasn't dead. T / F / DS
6 The woman wanted to talk to the bear. T / F / DS

6 Make a shoebox model of a scene from this fable or a different fable. Write the moral on a piece of paper and attach it to your scene.

7 Act out your story in groups.

My Friend Anak

This is a story about an orangutan called Anak.

My name is Dian. I take care of young orangutans at the Happy House Reserve in the rainforest. These young orangutans don't have families. They can't live alone.

What's this, Anak?

Anak is a baby. I take care of her every day. I give her milk from a bottle. I teach Anak about the rainforest. We have fun together. Anak isn't sad or lonely.

What's that, Anak?

Anak is now four years old. She eats fruit, leaves, and flowers. She can climb trees. She plays with other orangutans. But I am still Anak's special friend.

Anak is eight years old now. She sleeps and eats at the reserve. She plays in the rainforest a lot. Sometimes she takes a nap there.

Anak is twelve years old now. She lives and sleeps in the rainforest. I put out Anak's favorite foods, but she doesn't come. I miss Anak!

Look! Who's this? It's Anak. She's fifteen. She has a baby! Anak and I are happy to see each other.

Who's that?

I miss Anak, but I'm happy. Anak lives in the rainforest and teaches her baby how to live there, too.

Reach Higher
Student Book 4

The man walked home with a heavy heart. He was so worried. He knew that the fairy serpent would make him keep his promise. If he didn't send one of his daughters to marry the giant snake, then surely terrible things would happen to their family. When the man got home, his three loving daughters had made him a delicious dinner. But he was so worried, he couldn't eat a bite. His daughters thought this was very strange—their father always had a good appetite.

"I will let you go," said the serpent, "but only if you promise that one of your daughters will join me in marriage."
The man couldn't believe his ears! "No! I can give you all my money! Or I will come every day with gifts!" But the serpent said, "No! A wife is the only thing I want!"
The man thought to himself, I should sacrifice myself for my daughters. But then he thought some more: But I must care for my daughters. Reluctantly, he accepted the serpent's offer.

Before You Continue
1. Plot How did the serpent trap the man? How did he escape?
2. Character What is the father like? How can you tell?

Choose one of these ways to share your ideas about the Big Question.

- Talk About It! Is there a new tradition you want to start in your family? What is it? What would people do? Tell a partner.
- Write It! Write a Column How can someone choose a good husband or wife? Write an advice column about it. Give advice for choosing the right person. You should choose someone you really like because you will have to spend a lot of time with that person.
- Do It! Share a Game or Song Share a game or song that you learned from an older family member. Teach it to classmates so they can play or perform it. When you give instructions, be sure you teach the steps in the correct order!
- Do It! Make a Time Capsule Make a time capsule for younger family members. Write and draw to teach them about your family's most important traditions. Save the capsule to give to them in the future.

Writing Project

Write as a Reporter
Write an interview. Interview a neighbor or family member about a tradition that interests you. Write an article that tells about the person and describes the tradition.

Study a Model
In an interview, one person gathers information by asking another person questions. Often, the information is presented in a question-and-answer format.

Koko the Storyteller
Koko Lewis is Koko the Storyteller. He wants to share with you some of the best stories he has about what he does.

Write an Interview
Write an interview with Koko the Storyteller. Write questions and answers. Use the model as a guide.

Prewrite
1. Choose a Topic: Whom will you interview? What tradition will you focus on? Talk with a partner to choose the best ideas.

Language Frames

Ask Your Interviewee
• Can you tell me about...?
• How did you learn about...?
• How long has your family...?
• How do you feel about...?

Respond to Your Interviewee
• I am interested in...
• I like...
• I don't know...
• I would like to know more about...
• Can you tell me more about...?

Write
1. Read, Revise, Retell Read your draft aloud to a partner. Use the words "question" and "answer" so your partner will understand what parts you are reading. Then you can both talk about how to improve it.

Language Frames

Retell
• The traditional...
• The tradition for people called...
• The most interesting thing I...
• I learned that...

Make Suggestions
• I'd like to know more about...
• What other details could...
• The response of question (read) and answer (read) your partner.

2. Make Changes Think about your draft and your partner's suggestions. Use revision marks to make your changes.

• Are your questions in a logical order?
• What kinds of stories do you tell?
• Why did you become a storyteller?
• What do you do when you tell your stories?

• Add more details as needed.
